HONORING

Jill & Phil Plotnick

RICKY GODOROV KEY DAY AWARD

Ruth & Phil Spergel

WENDY COHEN ADVOCACY AWARD

Jill & Phil Plotnick

Ricky Godorov Key Day Award

Jill is a graduate of the Wharton School and holds a Master's Degree in Education and Mathematics from the University of Pennsylvania. She has worked with Upward Bound, Germantown Friends School, and has tutored over hundreds of students for the ACT and SAT while working as an academic consultant for 32 years. Most recently, she spent three years as the Vice Chair and Head of Auction at Legacy Youth and Tennis Education.

Phil graduated from Penn State University with a degree in accounting and finance and has 33 years of experience as a wealth advisor. Phil is an avid philanthropist, and in addition to supporting AADD, he maintains leadership positions at several charitable organizations including CHOP, Legacy Youth Tennis and Education, The Daniel B. Allanoff Foundation, Golden Slipper, Boys Town Jerusalem and the Honickman Learning Center.

Phil and Jill reside in Lafayette Hill with one son at Emory University and another finishing high school and entering Lynn University this fall. Phil and Jill are both proud and excited to be able to support AADD.

Ruth & Phil Spergel

Wendy Cohen Advocacy Award

Ruth, a native of Logan, PA, graduated from Olney High School and Temple University. It was at Temple University that she met her husband, Phil Spergel. Ruth has been an active community member all her life. She was an integral member of her children's Home and School Associations and served as President of the Wilson Junior High School and Northeast High School Home and School Associations. She currently serves as a member of the Board of Directors for AADD and is actively involved with Hadassah.

Phil, a native of Philadelphia, graduated from South Philadelphia High School for Boys and earned Bachelor's, Master's and Doctoral degrees from Temple University. He is a former director of services at Moss Rehabilitation and JEVS. Currently, he is practicing as a rehabilitation psychologist and vocational expert. Phil has been widely recognized for his expertise and recently published The Winning Edge - A Handbook for Testifying Vocational Experts, Lawyers and Judges Publishing Co. He also is a current member of the AADD Board of Directors.

Ruth and Phil are both advocates for children and vulnerable adults. They are especially proud of their three children, their spouses and six grandchildren. They are honored to be accepting this award.

Our Mission

Association for Adults with Developmental Disabilities' (AADD) mission is to provide education, discussion, and social activities that empower special needs men and women 18 years and older to live more independent lives while helping to support caregivers and helping to increase acceptance of special needs in our community. AADD creates secure environments where members develop the vital skills for lifelong independence - from employment, healthy eating, arranging transportation and managing personal finances, to forming and maintaining friendships and understanding the intricacies of public etiquette. Our program helps members break the chains of social isolation as they strive to maneuver through our complex world, assisting them to gain the self-confidence, pride, and greater independence that can lead to a long, healthy, and fulfilling life.
